Fire Marshal Raps Lack of Building Law in Bensalem

Robert Graham Says Municipalities Should Safeguard Against Fires

CHALFONT, Dec. 11. — Township authorities in Lower Bucks County are not taking the responsibilities they should to require new buildings to be safe from fire damage, Robert Graham, Bucks County fire marshal, said today.

He urged a state law that would make it mandatory for the municipalities to enact building and fire regulations. Bensalem twp. was cited by Graham as one of the communities most lax in setting building standards.

Graham said he is alarmed by the number of outside contractors who come into the county and build houses, sometimes expensive ones, without inserting "fire stop" which building codes usually require. A fire stop is an insertion between the inner and outer walls of a house, to avoid a hollowness in which flames could quickly rise from the basement. The stop can be of wood, he said, but without it "the space between the walls acts like a flue."

"It's a shocking situation when in those communities where no building codes exist any builder may construct whatever type of fire trap he wishes, with the authorities helpless to stop him" Graham said. "We are going to have a lot more fires."

Fire chiefs in the area are conscious of the problem, the fire marshal said, but have not gotten action on their requests for building codes.

He cited figures showing that 80

Langhorne Newly-Weds Are Painfully Hurt in A Crash; Two Cars Are Total Wrecks

FEASTERVILLE, Dec. 11 — A newly-wed couple planning their honeymoon were injured on Bridgetown Pike near Bristol road, 1½ miles north of here, when their new car collided head-on with another vehicle.

The husband, Francis Raisner, of Maple ave., Langhorne, was the most seriously hurt. He sustained a possible fractured skull, a severe laceration of the left leg, which contains a silver plate as a result of a war injury, and cuts of the face and head.

The driver of the other car, John Agnew, 30, of Braebourne rd., near Huntington Valley, received injuries of the left leg and a possible crushed chest.

The victims were transported to Nazareth Hospital, Phila., by the Trevose Heights Rescue Squad. C. J. Russell, Rescue Squad chief, said his crew had difficulty removing Raisner from his car as the Langhorne man was pinned under the dashboard.

The Raisners were married Saturday ,and had delayed their honeymoon until getting a new car, which they obtained yesterday. Mrs. Raisner was driving her husband to a physician's office when the crash occurred, she said.

Russell said the Raisners were driving south on Bridgetown Pike and Agnew was heading north. The two cars, almost totally wrecked, were towed to McBride's Garage, here.

Raisner is employed by the Lavelle Aircraft Co., Newtown. Agnew works for Western Electric Co., on telephone installations.

Claim Hospital Location Will Eliminate Noises

Lower Bucks Co. Institution Will Be Set Far Back From Highways

A spokesman for Lower Bucks County Hospital states that: "The hospital is being located far enough back from Bath road to give it privacy and isolation from traffic noises. In addition to the main building, the present contract calls for the erection of a power house and laundry building. The plot plan indicates a well conceived arrangement for additional buildings when further expansion is indicated.

"The exterior of the hospital will be a light-cast red brick which has been carefully selected for color range from two or three kilns within the state. At each end of the front of the building, there will be windowless panels which will terminate a horizontal motive of glass on each floor. These panels will conceal the principal fire escape stairways which will have an exterior finish of a warm pink marble which will blend nicely with the light red brick.

"The principal patients' section will face southeast which is the ideal exposure for patients' rooms. In order to make the patients' accommodations as attractive as possible, a greater portion of the outside wall will be composed of windows which will not only afford an attractive outlook for the patient, but will permit the maximum pene-

Post Office in High Gear As Volume of Mail Mounts

Cards, Packages, Letters For Christmas Coming In Heavy Flow Now

Postmaster Lawrence M. Mulligan said today that Post Office employees have shifted into high gear, as the volume of Christmas mail is mounting sharply.

By "critical" the Postmaster means that delivery of parcel post by Christmas cannot be guaranteed after next week. He recommends you "use Air Parcel Post for gifts mailed out-of-town at a later date."

Should Mail Now

Christmas cards going out-of-town should be mailed now, too. Those for local delivery at least a week before Christmas.

State Officials See Steps Taken To Prevent Pollution

Inspect Work Completed and See Plans for That Contemplated

Robert J. Trace, deputy attorney general, and George A. Elias, of the State Dept. of Health, visited the Bristol plant of Rohm & Haas Co., yesterday, to investigate the accident of Dec. 2nd, which resulted in the spillage into the Delaware River of about 270 gallons of a toxic material used in the manufacture of plastic products. They carefully examined the maps and drawings showing the work completed and projected and the equipment installed to prevent pollution of the river through a recurrence of an accident of this kind.

Mr. Trace and Mr. Elias also made a thorough examination of the plant. They were shown that all kettles and other units of the production system now in use have been connected with the impounding basins and it was pointed out that additional equipment will not be used until it also has been so connected. "Should any of this material accidentally spill it would be drained harmlessly into the impounding basins.

"Mr. Trace expressed himself as satisfied that all essential facts have been obtained, and was agreeable that the present rate of production be continued without interruption in the light of assurances given him by company officials," a company statement read.

Representatives of both the Philadelphia Transportation Company and the CIO-Transport Workers Union, reported "no progress" at last-minute talks attempting to resolve PTC operators, demands for a pay increase.

The strike threat hung like a sword of Damocles over the city's transit riders and in addition, a fare rise on Jan. 1 is a virtual certainty. A hearing is scheduled tomorrow on the PTC's request for an injunction against the strike, but Michael J. Quill, president of the TWU said the union would "take the law into its own hands" if the injunction is granted and strike anyway.

TO HONOR MEMORY

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Dec. 11—Morning Star Chapter, O. E. S., Bristol, will conduct service Friday evening at eight at the Tomlinson funeral home for Mrs. Rodman Fries.

Largest assortment of Christmas trees in this area will be on sale every day up until Christmas at The Bristol Farmers Market, Bath rd. and Rt. 413.—(Advt.)

The Township General Purpose tax in Bristol township will be reduced to eight mills, the one mill Fire tax will be dropped, and the 10 mill occupation tax for 1953 will be abolished if the record $210,000 proposed township budget read at the Commissioner's meeting at Edgely Fire house last night is approved for the year.

The General Purpose tax is presently nine mills. The reduction to eight mills comes because of the increase in real estate assessment of the township by approximately 50% according to Elwood Britton, secretary of the commissioners.

Reason given by Britton for the abolition of the fire tax for 1953 is that there is a great enough surplus in the Fire District fund that additional revenue is not necessary for the coming fiscal year.

Britton said that the township occupation tax has been removed for 1953 because of the difficulty of collecting more than 50% of the tax due the township from the levy. He said this difficulty arose because of the number of property transfers in the township with the consequent moving from the township of taxable persons, and others moving into the township too late to be placed on the tax rolls for that tax year.

The record proposed budget for 1953 is $90,000 higher than the budget for last year and the paradox of a record high budget and a reduction in tax millage is brought about by the increase in assessed valuation of real estate in the township said Britton.

A traffic light has been approved by the State Highway Department according to a letter read before the

Fire Marshal Raps Lack of Building Law in Bensalem

Robert Graham Says Municipalities Should Safeguard Against Fires

CHALFONT, Dec. 11. — Township authorities in Lower Bucks County are not taking the responsibilities they should to require new buildings to be safe from fire damage, Robert Graham, Bucks County fire marshal, said today.

He urged a state law that would make it mandatory for the municipalities to enact building and fire regulations. Bensalem twp. was cited by Graham as one of the communities most lax in setting building standards.

Graham said he is alarmed by the number of outside contractors who come into the county and build houses, sometimes expensive ones, without inserting "fire stop" which building codes usually require. A fire stop is an insertion between the inner and outer walls of a house, to avoid a hollowness in which flames could quickly rise from the basement. The stop can be of wood, he said, but without it "the space between the walls acts like a flue."

"It's a shocking situation when in those communities where no building codes exist any builder may construct whatever type of fire trap he wishes, with the authorities helpless to stop him" Graham said. "We are going to have a lot more fires."

Fire chiefs in the area are conscious of the problem, the fire marshal said, but have not gotten action on their requests for building codes.

He cited figures showing that 80

Langhorne Newly-Weds Are Painfully Hurt in A Crash; Two Cars Are Total Wrecks

FEASTERVILLE, Dec. 11 — A newly-wed couple planning their honeymoon were injured on Bridgetown Pike near Bristol road, 1½ miles north of here, when their new car collided head-on with another vehicle.

The husband, Francis Raisner, of Maple ave., Langhorne, was the most seriously hurt. He sustained a possible fractured skull, a severe laceration of the left leg, which contains a silver plate as a result of a war injury, and cuts of the face and head.

The driver of the other car, John Agnew, 30, of Braebourne rd., near Huntington Valley, received injuries of the left leg and a possible crushed chest.

The victims were transported to Nazareth Hospital, Phila., by the Trevose Heights Rescue Squad. C. J. Russell, Rescue Squad chief, said his crew had difficulty removing Raisner from his car as the Langhorne man was pinned under the dashboard.

The Raisners were married Saturday and had delayed their honeymoon until getting a new car, which they obtained yesterday. Mrs. Raisner was driving her husband to a physician's office when the crash occurred, she said.

Russell said the Raisners were driving south on Bridgetown Pike and Agnew was heading north. The two cars, almost totally wrecked, were towed to McBride's Garage, here.

Raisner is employed by the Lavelle Aircraft Co., Newtown. Agnew works for Western Electric Co., on telephone installations.

Claim Hospital Location Will Eliminate Noises

Lower Bucks Co. Institution Will Be Set Far Back From Highways

A spokesman for Lower Bucks County Hospital states that: "The hospital is being located far enough back from Bath road to give it privacy and isolation from traffic noises. In addition to the main building, the present contract calls for the erection of a power house and laundry building. The plot plan indicates a well conceived arrangement for additional buildings when further expansion is indicated.

"The exterior of the hospital will be a light-cast red brick which has been carefully selected for color range from two or three kilns within the state. At each end of the front of the building, there will be windowless panels which will terminate a horizontal motive of glass on each floor. These panels will conceal the principal fire escape stairways which will have an exterior finish of a warm pink marble which will blend nicely with the light red brick.

"The principal patients' section will face southeast which is the ideal exposure for patients' rooms. In order to make the patients' accommodations as attractive as possible, a greater portion of the outside wall will be composed of windows which will not only afford an attractive outlook for the patient, but will permit the maximum pene-

Post Office in High Gear As Volume of Mail Mounts

Cards, Packages, Letters For Christmas Coming In Heavy Flow Now

Postmaster Lawrence M. Mulligan said today that Post Office employees have shifted into high gear, as the volume of Christmas mail is mounting sharply.

"Where before it was uneven and unpredictable," he explained, "the packages and Christmas cards are now arriving in a steady flow. This coming weekend is especially critical."

By "critical" the Postmaster means that delivery of parcel post by Christmas cannot be guaranteed after next week. He recommends you "use Air Parcel Post for gifts mailed out-of-town at a later date."

Should Mail Now

Christmas cards going out-of-town should be mailed now, too. Those for local delivery at least a week before Christmas.

Postmaster Mulligan points out that thousands of packages are now enroute from all 48 states. They will create an even greater strain on local Post Office facilities.

However, as many daily deliveries as are necessary will be made

State Officials See Steps Taken To Prevent Pollution

Inspect Work Completed and See Plans for That Contemplated

Robert J. Trace, deputy attorney general, and George A. Elias, of the State Dept. of Health, visited the Bristol plant of Rohm & Haas Co., yesterday, to investigate the accident of Dec. 2nd, which resulted in the spillage into the Delaware River of about 270 gallons of a toxic material used in the manufacture of plastic products. They carefully examined the maps and drawings showing the work completed and projected and the equipment installed to prevent pollution of the river through a recurrence of an accident of this kind.

Mr. Trace and Mr. Elias also made a thorough examination of the plant. They were shown that all kettles and other units of the production system now in use have been connected with the impounding basins and it was pointed out that additional equipment will not be used until it also has been so connected. "Should any of this material accidentally spill it would be drained harmlessly into the impounding basins.

"Mr. Trace expressed himself as satisfied that all essential facts have been obtained, and was agreeable that the present rate of production be continued without interruption in the light of assurances given him by company officials," a company statement read.

Mill Street Has Greatest Number of Shoppers Ever

Bright Wreaths, Ribbons and Tinsel Herald the Coming of Santa

Bright red ribbons, wreaths, and tinsel glittering from show windows along Mill street are heralding the coming of Santa Claus and the greatest number of Christmas shoppers ever to take advantage of Bristol's main shopping center.

Just a few short steps from the intersection of Mill street and old Route 13 at Norman's stationery and gift shop a show window Santa Claus is just coming down—or is he going up—a realistic chimney. Bright red-ribboned sleigh bells and Christmas candles set in holders among the display of china lend a holiday air to these show windows.

Santa sits on the snowy bough of a tree in the windows of the Les-Lyn Kiddie Shop, pointing to the store of children's clothes inside, reminding us that Christmas in reality belongs to the children.

In Smith's Model Shop, crystal-like snowflakes hang from the ceiling of the store window, while under the frosty boughs are sprink-

Township Board to Cut Tax Rate on Real Estate; Occupations

The Township General Purpose tax in Bristol township will be reduced to eight mills, the one mill Fire tax will be dropped, and the 10 mill occupation tax for 1953 will be abolished if the record $210,000 proposed township budget read at the Commissioner's meeting at Edgely Fire house last night is approved for the year.

The General Purpose tax is presently nine mills. The reduction to eight mills comes because of the increase in real estate assessment of the township by approximately 50% according to Elwood Britton, secretary of the commissioners.

Reason given by Britton for the abolition of the fire tax for 1953 is that there is a great enough surplus in the Fire District fund that additional revenue is not necessary for the coming fiscal year.

Britton said that the township occupation tax has been removed for 1953 because of the difficulty of collecting more than 50% of the tax due the township from the levy. He said this difficulty arose because of the number of property transfers in the township with the consequent moving from the township of taxable persons, and others moving into the township too late to be placed on the tax rolls for that tax year.

The record proposed budget for 1953 is $90,000 higher than the budget for last year and the paradox of a record high budget and a reduction in tax millage is brought about by the increase in assessed valuation of real estate in the township said Britton.

A traffic light has been approved by the State Highway Department according to a letter read before the

---NEWS BRIEFS---

Philadelphia Transit Strike Likely

Philadelphia—A city-wide transit strike beginning Sunday midnight appeared more likely than ever today in Philadelphia following complete breakdown of union-company negotiations. Representatives of both the Philadelphia Transportation Company and the CIO-Transport Workers Union, reported "no progress" at last-minute talks attempting to resolve PTC operators, demands for a pay increase.

The strike threat hung like a sword of Damocles over the city's transit riders and in addition, a fare rise on Jan. 1 is a virtual certainty. A hearing is scheduled tomorrow on the PTC's request for an injunction against the strike, but Michael J. Quill, president of the TWU said the union would "take the law into its own hands" if the injunction is granted and strike anyway.

UNCONQUERED EVEREST

The Swiss mountain climbers and their Nepalese companions have failed to reach the summit of Mt. Everest. But they came closer than anybody else.

The old name of the highest mountain is Chomolungma, the goddess-mother, on whose white altar many human sacrifices have died. The Chinese communists, who have not conquered it, now claim it belongs to them as part of Tibet, though it actually lies partly in Nepal. But no secret police appeared to harass the climbers. Climbing Everest is a man's job.

There's the low atmospheric pressure, for one thing. At an altitude of three miles many men develop nosebleeds, headaches or nausea. At three and a half miles the pressure is only half of what it is at sea level. The symptoms become worse and worse. Oxygen bottles may prevent slow suffocation, but the human body can accustom itself only partly to the low pressures. And Everest reaches to 29,022 feet—five and one-half miles—above sea level.

The intense cold, aggravated by bone-chilling winds, is another hazard. Fifty below is merely average. Such conditions do things to men's bodies, their vision, their hearing, their metabolism. Eternal snows may blind them. The sun's actinic rays become dangerously strong in the thin air. Muscles falter and reflexes fall out of phase. A parched throat becames a real danger.

The brave and stubborn men who refuse to surrender to unconquered Everest succeed in getting away from it all, and they plod through scenery of impressive and terrible splendor. But they escape into a world implacable in its harsh inhospitality.

KING BOREALIS

King Borealis is getting ready for Christmas, and man's modern contrivances are taking it on the chin. Reindeer would never be stuck in a snowdrift, no matter how deep. But snowstorms have stranded trains, tied up airplanes and otherwise played hob with transportation and living along the Pacific coast. No doubt before Santa makes his annual migration, similar inconveniences will be suffered farther eastward.

But King Borealis refuses to be diverted from his task, which is to prepare the terrain for Santa's reindeer. How could those doughty animals make their way southward from the North Pole if snowfall did not precede their course at least part of the way?

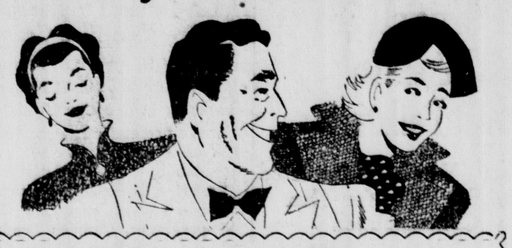

Yep, Christmas is so close things are really humming. Stores are jampacked with customers.

At the post office, too, the velocity of Christmas activity is gaining momentum. Preparations have been made to handle many times the normal volume of mail, but that is no reason to expect the impossible in the last few hectic days before Christmas. Mail it now is as good a motto as any that has been suggested for the Yuletide.

between now and December 25. In some localities around-the-clock service is available. But a sudden storm can delay the Christmas mail to and from any part of the United States.

Consequently, the Postmaster urges you to forget about sending everything at once. Mail your packages two or three at a time. Tie your Christmas cards in two bundles, and attach the special postal labels marked "All for local delivery" or "All for out-of-town delivery."

"Ask for these labels," the Postmaster said, "when you go to the stamp window. You'll find other helpful mailing instructions printed on the back. I think they are one of the best time-saving devices the Post Office has ever had."

Yule Cheer Planned For Kiddies by Auxiliary

A meeting of Chester W. Terchon Auxiliary was held in the post home, Monday evening, with Mrs. H. R. Kornstedt presiding. Twenty-five attended.

Plans were made for a "kiddies'" Christmas party, Dec. 21st, sponsored by Post and Auxiliary members.

The rehabilitation committee discussed plans for Christmas baskets to be distributed to needy families.

It was decided to postpone the second meeting this month. The monthly card party will be postponed for the month of December, the next affair being held Jan. 28.

Cards (get-well and sympathy) were sent to several members of the post and auxiliary, Miss A. Sabatini, chairman, reported.

Mrs. F. K. Wilson, 8th district president, gave a report on the Scotland School Christmas party, to be held Dec. 20th. Members made donations of home-made cookies and fruit cakes.

After business, a social was held honoring four members on their birthday anniversaries. A spaghetti dinner was served, the chairmen being Mrs. E. Gilardi and Mrs. C. Pirri. Gifts were presented to Mrs. M. Nesbitt, Mrs. J. Crudo, Mrs. J. White and Mrs. F. Kowal.

Thirty-five members had made reservations for the Christmas party at Palumbo's Restaurant, Phila., last evening. The trip was made by chartered bus.

McFeeley Speaks To The Parents Auxiliary Group

NEWTOWN, Dec. 11 — Principal Richard McFeely, George School, addressed members of the Parents Auxiliary of Newtown Friends School Monday evening in the school.

Mr. McFeely spoke on the work of Lower Bucks County Human Relations Council relative to housing, education and employment in the expanding lower Bucks area and the problems the county will face.

A film entitled "Time for Greatness" was shown, reporting steps toward peace which Friends feel the nation could go through when working on mediation of international affiliations.

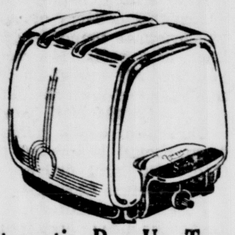

Walter Evans, president of the Auxiliary, presided at the business session. It was reported the fair held at the school in November netted $1,018, with more than $100 being made on work of the children in the school.

Parents of sixth grade pupils served refreshments.

UNCONQUERED EVEREST

The Swiss mountain climbers and their Nepalese companions have failed to reach the summit of Mt. Everest. But they came closer than anybody else.

The old name of the highest mountain is Chomolungma, the goddess-mother, on whose white altar many human sacrifices have died. The Chinese communists, who have not conquered it, now claim it belongs to them as part of Tibet, though it actually lies partly in Nepal. But no secret police appeared to harass the climbers. Climbing Everest is a man's job.

There's the low atmospheric pressure, for one thing. At an altitude of three miles many men develop nosebleeds, headaches or nausea. At three and a half miles the pressure is only half of what it is at sea level. The symptoms become worse and worse. Oxygen bottles may prevent slow suffocation, but the human body can accustom itself only partly to the low pressures. And Everest reaches to 29,022 feet—five and one-half miles—above sea level.

The intense cold, aggravated by bone-chilling winds, is another hazard. Fifty below is merely average. Such conditions do things to men's bodies, their vision, their hearing, their metabolism. Eternal snows may blind them. The sun's actinic rays become dangerously strong in the thin air. Muscles falter and reflexes fall out of phase. A parched throat becames a real danger.

The brave and stubborn men who refuse to surrender to unconquered Everest succeed in getting away from it all, and they plod through scenery of impressive and terrible splendor. But they escape into a world implacable in its harsh inhospitality.

KING BOREALIS

King Borealis is getting ready for Christmas, and man's modern contrivances are taking it on the chin. Reindeer would never be stuck in a snowdrift, no matter how deep. But snowstorms have stranded trains, tied up airplanes and otherwise played hob with transportation and living along the Pacific coast. No doubt before Santa makes his annual migration, similar inconveniences will be suffered farther eastward.

But King Borealis refuses to be diverted from his task, which is to prepare the terrain for Santa's reindeer. How could those doughty animals make their way southward from the North Pole if snowfall did not precede their course at least part of the way?

Yep, Christmas is so close things are really humming. Stores are jampacked with customers.

At the post office, too, the velocity of Christmas activity is gaining momentum. Preparations have been made to handle many times the normal volume of mail, but that is no reason to expect the impossible in the last few hectic days before Christmas. Mail it now is as good a motto as any that has been suggested for the Yuletide.

per cent of the nation's fire fatalities occur in homes, and 70 per cent of them in localities where there is no supervision over building and fire safety.

The marshal suggested that persons buying homes in "unprotected" areas consult local fire chiefs to check the buildings for safety.

Representatives of the 54 Bucks County Volunteer Fire companies will meet Saturday at 8 a. m. at New Hope High School. They will name a committee to attend a conference with Franklin Wood, director of the Bucks County Planning Commission, at which fire and building codes will be discussed.

lings of snow, symbols of the Christmas spirit.

Carols, Hymns, and Christmas airs are played to the holiday crowds by Auto Boys. Here amid striped candy canes, dolls, toys, and bicycles, and the ever fascinating electric trains Santa makes his headquarters inside the store.

A candy-cane column supports the corner window of Kanters, where shirts, jackets, and socks tied all in neat red holiday ribbons invite the passerby to stop in and shop awhile.

Folding an omelet toward the pan handle seems to make it come out better.

NEWPORTVILLE

Fergusonville Girls Club held a meeting Wednesday evening. Election of officers for an eight-week period resulted as follows: President, Christina Charlton; vice-president, Winnie McCurdy; secretary, Lorraine Braffelner; treasurer, Barbara Stevenson. The girls made Christmas trees from crepe paper, milk carton and pictures; also some decorations for the community center. Beverages and pretzels were served. A Christmas party for the club will be held Dec. 17th. Fifty cent gifts will be exchanged.

lings of snow, symbols of the Christmas spirit.

Carols, Hymns, and Christmas airs are played to the holiday crowds by Auto Boys. Here amid striped candy canes, dolls, toys, and bicycles, and the ever fascinating electric trains Santa makes his headquarters inside the store.

A candy-cane column supports the corner window of Kanters, where shirts, jackets, and socks tied all in neat red holiday ribbons invite the passerby to stop in and shop awhile.

Folding an omelet toward the pan handle seems to make it come out better.

NEWPORTVILLE

Fergusonville Girls Club held a meeting Wednesday evening. Election of officers for an eight-week period resulted as follows: President, Christina Charlton; vice-president, Winnie McCurdy; secretary, Lorraine Braffelner; treasurer, Barbara Stevenson. The girls made Christmas trees from crepe paper, milk carton and pictures; also some decorations for the community center. Beverages and pretzels were served. A Christmas party for the club will be held Dec. 17th. Fifty cent gifts will be exchanged.

Psalm 23:4

We know that the shadow of death is upon everything in this life. The day we are born we are starting our trip to the grave. But, do we need to fear death? To God's children has been given that lack of fear. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil."

The reason for this comfort is the confidence we have in the Sheherd. "For thou are with me." "Not ahead nor behind but with me". We know as we go through the valley He holds our hand and brings us out on the other side into His glory.

As the sight and touch of the rod and staff brought courage to the sheep and assured them of the Shepherd's presence, we too take courage in the rod of authority and discipline and the staff on which we lean; His Word.

To Request Free Passage Until Approaches Ready

MORRISVILLE, Dec. 11 — A motion was passed this week by Morrisville borough council to request the Penna. Toll Bridge Commission to permit automobiles to travel the new Trenton-Morrisville bridge free of charge until approaches have been completed.

The action, passed unanimously was taken to relieve current traffic congestion in the borough.

Civil Defense Director Neal Nolan was instructed to obtain services of an architect to draw up plans for the proposed one-story, 20 by 30 feet Civil Defense Building to be constructed at the rear of the borough hall.

Councilman Robert Warwick, who registered the only dissenting vote to the motion, questioned the need for such a building at this time. He declared that eventually a new borough hall will be required and that the "expenditure for a one-room building is unwise."

When Councilman Theodore Evans suggested the use of borough hall or one of the fire company buildings for defense headquarters, he was informed by Nolan that such action already had been investigated and found inadvisable.

In council's letter to the Toll Bridge Commission, the group's request for establishment of a no-parking zone on Pennsylvania ave. between the two interchanges of the new Freeway will be denied.

Council voiced its disapproval of a no-parking zone on the east side and will permit a ban on parking only within 35 feet of the interchange on the west side of the street. As a result the commission also will be instructed to remove the no-parking signs it already has posted in this area.

Purchase of a 1953 four-door sedan was authorized from the Fallsington Motor Co., Inc., the only firm submitting a bid.

Announcement of a street committee meeting at 10:30 A. M. Jan. 11, was made by Nicholas Mislan. The group will investigate feasibility of opening dead-end streets. This will include a study of Franklin and Palmer sts. and possibility of extending these avenues across the canal to Delmorr ave.

The 1953 model is the 25th presented by Plymouth since the company started in 1928. Everything has changed in those years except the car's reputation as the finest in the low-priced field. See your local Plymouth dealer.—(Advt.)

Recites History of School Growth in Bristol Borough

Parent-Teacher Association of Bristol Presents Some Data

The history of Bristol is such that we who live here should be proud of it's historical background. Did you know that Bristol Borough was the third town in Pennsylvania? Did you know that it was first laid out as town in 1697, because of it's location at the "ferry against Burlington".

The Bristol Parent Teacher Association would like to acquaint you with the historical background of our schools.

The first school directors in Bristol Borough were elected in 1835, after the Pennsylvania law of 1834 had been enacted. The board made arrangements to carry out the objects of the law by levying a tax of $450 and renting rooms for accommodation of the children. The enrollment of students, who desired an education, increased so rapidly that the school board found it was necessary to erect a building for school purposes. There were many property owners who objected to the building because they sent their children to private schools. Nevertheless, the voters solved that problem by electing three new school directors who were in favor of the building. Thus the first school building at Wood street was completed in December 1837 for the total cost of $4,936.88. This building is now being used for manufacturing tile.

By 1852 this building was not large enough to accommodate the children of Bristol so measures were taken to build a second school.

On June 28, 1878 the conerstone of the Washington street school was laid with appropriate cermonies. This building cost $6,529, plus $315 for the installation of an improved system of ventilation.

August, 1881, the Bath street public school was completed and ready for occupancy. The total cost of this building was $15,444.18. It was from this building that the first high school students graduated.

The first class that was graduated was in 1887. Margaret Barrett, Ella Carter and Minerva Johns were the first to be graduated from a Bristol school. In 1889, Abby Pepper Gratersford, Maud Jones, Josephine McIlvaine, Edgar Sooy, James Brooks and Theresa Barrett Gavengan were graduated.

1890, Howard C. Booge, William Kimble, Mary Wilkinson and William Sherman were in the graduating exercises.

Ellis E. Ratcliffe was the only one to graduate in 1891.

1893, Gertrude Hall Whitney, William Highland, Elizabeth Percy, Mary Maude Ancher, Bertha Hetherington, Anna Foster and Edward Wilkinson.

At a meeting of the public school board, held July 6, 1893, preliminary steps were taken to erect a high school and grammar school at the corner of Wood and Mulberry streets. The total costs of this building was $24,930.20. Thus the first Bristol high school was completed and occupied in November 1894.

Jefferson avenue school was dedicated on May 24, 1909. This building cost $38,780.80. The basement floor was originally used as an auditorim but soon became converted into classrooms.

The history of our present high school was given in a past issue of this paper. It became our high school in 1922.

STUFFED EGGS

Stuffed hard-boiled eggs make a good addition to salads. Three or four make a salad in themselves. Try thin slices of stuffed olives in the center of each half egg, or chopped sweet or dill pickles, or chopped pimento or green pepper.

LIFE INSURANCE
By International News Service

People in the U. S. bought around $30,000,000,000 worth of life insurance protection in 1951 alone. Figures show that three out of every four families in the U. S. own life insurance of some kind, and one of every two Americans is a life insurance policyholder.

Neshaminy High Places Six Players On All-Star Team

Neshaminy High, champion of the 1952 season, dominated the Lower Bucks County All-Star football team with six players. The selections were made by the coaches of the seven teams in the loop, namely: Anthony D'Angelo, Bristol; Marion VanHorn, Bensalem; Harry Franks, Neshaminy; Gordon Davies, Morrisville; George Jarmoska, Pennsbury; Larry Dux, Southampton; and Dominic Sagolla, Council Rock.

The six Neshaminy players picked were: Al Hofmann and Ferman Lex, ends; Tom Lauther and Steve Cloak, guards; Gary Latham and Lou Maurer, backs. Bristol High had Ed Charlton at one of the tackle positions, with Dick Scott, Bensalem, taking one of the guard posts. Morrisville had two selections, Frank Gator, tackle, and Tommy Trout, back. The other position, a backfield spot, went to Herman Teschner, Council Rock.

All of the players selected on the first team are seniors with the exception of Lou Maurer, who is a senior but will be ineligible to play varsity football next season.

Jack Gleason, Bristol, was placed in the backfield of the second team, while Bobby Rago and Roland Davis, lineman and back, respectively, of the Warriors, were given honorable mention.

Township Commissioners

commissioners last night. The light is to be installed at Edgely avenue and Route 13. It will be flashing yellow in the direction of Route 13 between the hours of 11 p. m. and seven a. m. The remaining hours it will function as a red and green traffic light. The commissioners will advertise for bids for the light.

Commissioner Eugene Stutz requested blockades for a snow slide be installed on Edgely avenue between the railroad hill and Route 13. Permission was granted.

Commissioner Oscar Booz read a letter from the Rohm & Haas company expressing that company's "profound regrets" for the accidental spilling of chemicals into the river. The letter told of efforts to prevent recurrences of the event.

Booz reported that the township map was completed enough for the twp. engineer to begin detailing of individual plots, and plots would be marked out first in the sections between Maple Shade and Rogers road. After that the areas that may be eligible for foot mail delivery will be marked out.

Complaints about cesspools running over in the areas of Croydon near Sycamore avenue, Magnolia avenue, and at Cedar avenue near the railroad bridge were registered by Jacob Tryon of 830 Sycamore avenue, and his brother Richard.

Jacob Tryon said he "could probably pick out 50 different cesspools that were running over in the Croydon area." Booz suggested that he write a letter to the health officer and that if that didn't work, He, Booz would look into the matter.

Complaints, said Booz, are still coming in from the residents of the area around the 3-M company and the matter will be checked into further this week he added.

A resolution was passed appointing Walter G. Riper, R.D. No. 1, Bristol, zoning officer for Bristol township.

An ordinance was passed amending and supplementing the ordinance calling for fees for street repairs. Under the new ruling the contractor who breaks the street must now pay for a permit to do so and must make the repairs to the street himself.

Britton said that Chief Seader was still checking into the school crossing situation at Coates avenue and Radcliffe street. Richard Tryon spoke of the lack of stop signs on streets entering Cedar avenue, Croydon, and Jacob Tryon complained of buses and taxi's parking between "No Parking" signs near the entrance to the Philco plant in Croydon.

A $1088.22 insurance contract covering township equipment was deferred for final action at a future special meeting.

Frank C. King submitted plans and evidence of a contract with Joseph Haines for construction of streets in plot No. 3, Bath Addition, and applied to the commissioners to accept his personal bond. Approval was given subject to the provisions of Ordinance No. 1 of 1948 and bond fixed at $3000. The streets must be completed no later than May 1, 1953.

Plans for the Dogwood, Oak Tree Hollow, and Red Cedar Hill sections of Levittown were approved. Streets are to be completed within one year according to the application.

Contracts with the Philadelphia Electric Company for the lighting of streets in sections 4, 5, 6, 7, 12, 13, 14 and 15 of Levittown were approved. The contract specifies that the township take over the streets on petition of the Levitt corporation after the streets are accepted by the township. The commissioners said they didn't want to take over the lights until the tax revenue was coming in to pay for them.

Lawrence Monroe, township attorney advised that the commissioners should enter into an agreement with Levitt that the township doesn't pay for the lighting until the revenue is coming in, rather than after they take over the streets.

George Sottung, president of the commissioners said the matter of women deputies at school crossings will be taken up with the township school board.

Have Discussion

was "Delhaas." This matter was shelved for the present.

Peter Tarasoff suggested inviting township manufacturers to send representatives to monthly meetings. President Albert Rogers proposed a concerted membership drive, goal each member securing ten additional ones. Albert Smith suggested investigating possibility of securing a centralized, permanent meeting place in which to hold meetings, pointing out that the present method of rotating monthly meetings among the township's three fire stations is confusing. A preliminary report was made by Mrs. Harry Gough on progress on publication of proposed township directory.

A decision was made to sponsor a Christmas party for members of the safety patrols from all schools in the township, in Edgely fire station, Dec. 20th, six to eight p. m. Members of the committee for this affair are Mrs. Gough, chairman; Mrs. Christopher Adams, Mrs. Daniel Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fischer, Harry Gough, Mrs. Charles Leighton, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Grady, Mr. and Mrs. Clemis Schade and Mrs. Stephen Sutton.

Chief of Police Joseph Seader explained the tour to be made by Santa Claus Dec. 20th under sponsorship of Bristol-Lower Bucks Co. Chamber of Commerce.

New members accepted are: Mrs. Carrie Fischer, Charles M. Fischer and J. Harry Smith. Refreshments were served.

tration of the sun's rays during the fall, winter and spring. Special precaution will be taken, however, to prevent discomfiture to the patients by excessive sun rays during the summer months. This will be accomplished by the provision of a projection concrete sun shade placed just above the window areas on each of the floors and extending approximately the full length of the front of the building. In order to achieve a cheerful exterior, the under side of these concrete sun shades will be painted a soft contrasting color to that of the brick and marble exterior.

"The main building of the unit is now being constructed and will consist of three main or patients' floors with a fourth floor unit at the center consisting of a patients' solarium, doctors' quarters, etc. The superstructure of the building is so designed to carry the weight of an additional floor on all of the wings except the operating room which will permit an increase in the bed capacity to 300. In the overall plans, consideration has been given to future expansion to a total of 500 beds which will involve a separate building for maternity patients and a nurses' home.

"At the center and on the first floor of the main building, there will be an entrance lobby, with a patients' and visitors' waiting room and a solarium on each floor located directly above the lobby. The exterior walls of these units will be constructed entirely of glass. The interior of the main lobby will be finished with walls of a warm and rich wood veneer. The main section of the floor will be a two tone marble with a section of the lobby carpeted and furnished with simple, durable furniture.

"The main entrance will be provided with an attractively designed canopy concentrically curved with the drive which will permit the discharging of occupants from at least four cars at one time.

"For the convenience of patients and visitors, there will be provided a gift shop and snack bar immediately across the hall from the entrance lobby and readily accessible from all parts of the building.

"On the first floor and at the right of the entrance lobby, there will be located the administrative, business and professional offices. To the left there will be located a pediatric or children's department consisting of twenty-four beds. There will be two modern elevators when the patients' capacity of the hospital is increased.

"Immediately to the rear of the lobby, there will be a connecting corridor leading to the personnel dining rooms, main kitchen, diet kitchen, laboratory, X-Ray department, clinics and the emergency accident department."

Some Insurance Rebates To Go To Fire Company

FAIRLESS HILLS, Dec. 11 — A number of residents here, it is announced, have pledged to donate rebates on insurance premiums toward the fund for the recently-purchased fire truck. This fund has now reached $6,573.

Fairless Hills is now designated as a protected area, as far as fire insurance companies are concerned, men of the local fire company being qualified as trained firemen; the company having two trucks including a new one; and fire hydrants having been installed.

A big help to the donations is a joint gift of $2500 from Danherst Corp. and U. S. Steel Co.

Stephen E. Westaby is chairman of the solicitation fund. A house-to-house canvass has been under way.

John O'Hear, president of the fire company, states that work on the 20-foot extension to the fire station will be done by members in their spare time. The new $17,000 Ward-LaFrance truck will be housed there.

PREDICTS POPULATION INCREASE

PHILADELPHIA—A 20 per cent population increase in the Delaware Valley by 1960 — making a total of 5 million—is predicted in a new edition of "Philadelphia Facts" published by the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia. The statistical manual predicts employment of more than 300,000 new workers during the next 5 years. J. Harry Labrum, president of the Chamber, hailed the "emergence of the important steel industry in the Delaware Valley as a forerunner of a brilliant future."

Recites History of School Growth in Bristol Borough

Parent-Teacher Association of Bristol Presents Some Data

The history of Bristol is such that we who live here should be proud of it's historical background. Did you know that Bristol Borough was the third town in Pennsylvania? Did you know that it was first laid out as town in 1697, because of it's location at the "ferry against Burlington".

The Bristol Parent Teacher Association would like to acquaint you with the historical background of our schools.

The first school directors in Bristol Borough were elected in 1835, after the Pennsylvania law of 1834 had been enacted. The board made arrangements to carry out the objects of the law by levying a tax of $450 and renting rooms for accommodation of the children. The enrollment of students, who desired an education, increased so rapidly that the school board found it was necessary to erect a building for school purposes. There were many property owners who objected to the building because they sent their children to private schools. Nevertheless, the voters solved that problem by electing three new school directors who were in favor of the building. Thus the first school building at Wood street was completed in December 1837 for the total cost of $4,936.88. This building is now being used for manufacturing tile.

By 1852 this building was not large enough to accommodate the children of Bristol so measures were taken to build a second school.

On June 28, 1878 the conerstone of the Washington street school was laid with appropriate cermonies. This building cost $6,529, plus $315 for the installation of an improved system of ventilation.

August, 1881, the Bath street public school was completed and ready for occupancy. The total cost of this building was $15,444.18. It was from this building that the first high school students graduated.

The first class that was graduated was in 1887. Margaret Barrett, Ella Carter and Minerva Johns were the first to be graduated from a Bristol school. In 1889, Abby Pepper Gratersford, Maud Jones, Josephine McIlvaine, Edgar Sooy, James Brooks and Theresa Barrett Gavengan were graduated.

1890, Howard C. Booge, William Kimble, Mary Wilkinson and William Sherman were in the graduating exercises.

Ellis E. Ratcliffe was the only one to graduate in 1891.

1893, Gertrude Hall Whitney, William Highland, Elizabeth Percy, Mary Maude Ancher, Bertha Hetherington, Anna Foster and Edward Wilkinson.

At a meeting of the public school board, held July 6, 1893, preliminary steps were taken to erect a high school and grammar school at the corner of Wood and Mulberry streets. The total costs of this building was $24,930.20. Thus the first Bristol high school was completed and occupied in November 1894.

Jefferson avenue school was dedicated on May 24, 1909. This building cost $38,780.80. The basement floor was originally used as an auditorim but soon became converted into classrooms.

The history of our present high school was given in a past issue of this paper. It became our high school in 1922.

STUFFED EGGS

By International News Service

Stuffed hard-boiled eggs make a good addition to salads. Three or four make a salad in themselves. Try thin slices of stuffed olives in the center of each half egg, or chopped sweet or dill pickles, or chopped pimento or green pepper.

LIFE INSURANCE

By International News Service

People in the U. S. bought around $30,000,000,000 worth of life insurance protection in 1951 alone. Figures show that three out of every four families in the U. S. own life insurance of some kind, and one of every two Americans is a life insurance policyholder.

PREDICTS POPULATION INCREASE

PHILADELPHIA—A 20 per cent population increase in the Delaware Valley by 1960 — making a total of 5 million—is predicted in a new edition of "Philadelphia Facts" published by the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia. The statistical manual predicts employment of more than 300,000 new workers during the next 5 years. J. Harry Labrum, president of the Chamber, hailed the "emergence of the important steel industry in the Delaware Valley as a forerunner of a brilliant future."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (INS) — X-rays can now be used to measure the thickness of a metal plate within an accuracy of one hundredth of an inch. A metal of standard thickness is placed in the system and the plate being measured is automatically compared to it. J. F. Howell, of the General Electric Co. Penna. Industry Uses Huge Quantity of Water

4021 Million Gallons a Day, Representative Livengood Reports

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11—William S. Livengood, Jr., Secretary of Internal Affairs, reported today that the industries of Pennsylvania used water at the rate of 4,021 million gallons a day in 1951.

Secretary Livengood said the industrial water consumption data, developed in the first comprehensive water-use study ever made in Pennsylvania, also showed that industry obtained 3,579 million gallons, or 89 per cent of the water used, from private sources and that 92 per cent of the total supply was withdrawn from surface-water sources.

The statistics on water-use were gathered by the Department of Internal Affairs at the request of the Pennsylvania Council of Water Resources, in which the Departments of Internal Affairs, Forests and Waters and Commerce, are cooperating with the United States Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Internal Affairs sent a special questionnaire to each of the more than 20,000 industrial establishments in Pennsylvania, requesting information on the water they used, particularly its source and the amount.

Data for 1951 on all water systems in Pennsylvania were supplied by the Division of Public Utilities, of the Bureau of Statistics, so that exclusive of rural water use and the water requirements of those utilities supplying electric power, steam heat, and maufactured gas, all major water users in Pennsylvania have been inventoried.

Mr. Livengood reported that the inventory thus obtained will provide water agencies and planning groups with probably the most accurate appraisal of water use for any State in the nation.

In addition, he added, that additional statistical analysis of the data obtained is expected to provide information on the quantities of water required for the unit manufacture of the more important industrial products of Pennsylvania.

The first table shows that public supply agencies provided an average daily quantity of 329 million gallons to 8.6 million consumers, or 82 per cent of the Commonwealth's population. Of this amount, public-supply agencies furnished 442 million gallons a day for individual use. The report also showed 412.5 million gallons of the water supplied to industry by public-supply agencies, came from streams, lakes and reservoirs and 29.8 million gallons from ground-water sources.

The second table showed that 89 per cent of the water used by industry in 1951 came from private sources and that of this, 3,297.2 million gallons came from the surface and 281.9 million gallons from ground-water sources.

The heaviest use of water by industry was in Allegheny County, where the total amount in 1951 was 1274.7 million gallons a day. Beaver County was second with 529.2 million gallons daily and Delaware County third with 309.2 million gallons a day. The industrial use of water in Philadelphia totaled 226.9 million gallons a day.

Only 42.1 million gallons of water used by industry in Allegheny County came from municipal supply and the remainder from private sources, while in Beaver, Delaware and Philadelphia Counties, the totals from municipal supply were 3.8 million gallons, 5.2 million gallons and 66.4 million gallons respectively.

Spotlight at Farm Show Will Be Held by Youth

Pennsylvania's 37th Annual Is to Open at Harrisburg On January 12th

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11 — Farm youth of Pennsylvania will have their full share of the spotlight at the 37th annual Pennsylvania Farm Show here next January 12-16, demonstrating the important part they play in the advancement of Keystone State agriculture, according to Miles Horst, chairman of the Farm Show Commission.

Programs and events have been arranged for young rural people that will call for greater participation than at any other Farm Show, the State Secretary of Agriculture declared.

The 1952 Pennsylvania Farm Show was dedicated most effectively to "Youth in Agriculture." The 1953 show is to emphasize "Efficiency in Production" and in such dedication Secretary Horst sees opportunity for rural youth to make an outstanding contribution for advancement of Pennsylvania agriculture through the many club and school activities that are designed for efficient operation of the farm and the farm home.

Coming to the 1953 Farm Show will be thousands of 4-H Club members and representatives of the Future Farmers of America and the Future Homemakers of America. Hundreds will take active parts in the show through providing livestock and other farm home exhibits. They will also enter various contests and demonstrations for which the Commission is providing thousands of dollars in premium awards.

Highlights of youth activities include a block-long display of special exhibits of their vocational school project work by 18 FFA and FHA chapters, a record number of vocational school demonstrations, also cattle, swine, and lamb competition, potato grading and tractor driving contests. Youth participation peaks on Thursday with selection of the 4-H Club Baby Beef and Lamb Champions and their sale at auction on Friday afternoon just before the close of the show.

The girl, according to police, said she grabbed a piece of cloth and "to keep him quiet I pushed and moved the rag down his throat." (International)

Penna. Industry Uses Huge Quantity of Water

4021 Million Gallons a Day, Representative Livengood Reports

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11—William S. Livengood, Jr., Secretary of Internal Affairs, reported today that the industries of Pennsylvania used water at the rate of 4,021 million gallons a day in 1951.

Secretary Livengood said the industrial water consumption data, developed in the first comprehensive water-use study ever made in Pennsylvania, also showed that industry obtained 3,579 million gallons, or 89 per cent of the water used, from private sources and that 92 per cent of the total supply was withdrawn from surface-water sources.

The statistics on water-use were gathered by the Department of Internal Affairs at the request of the Pennsylvania Council of Water Resources, in which the Departments of Internal Affairs, Forests and Waters and Commerce, are cooperating with the United States Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Internal Affairs sent a special questionnaire to each of the more than 20,000 industrial establishments in Pennsylvania, requesting information on the water they used, particularly its source and the amount.

Data for 1951 on all water systems in Pennsylvania were supplied by the Division of Public Utilities, of the Bureau of Statistics, so that exclusive of rural water use and the water requirements of those utilities supplying electric power, steam heat, and maufactured gas, all major water users in Pennsylvania have been inventoried.

Mr. Livengood reported that the inventory thus obtained will provide water agencies and planning groups with probably the most accurate appraisal of water use for any State in the nation.

In addition, he added, that additional statistical analysis of the data obtained is expected to provide information on the quantities of water required for the unit manufacture of the more important industrial products of Pennsylvania.

The first table shows that public supply agencies provided an average daily quantity of 329 million gallons to 8.6 million consumers, or 82 per cent of the Commonwealth's population. Of this amount, public-supply agencies furnished 442 million gallons a day for individual use. The report also showed 412.5 million gallons of the water supplied to industry by public-supply agencies, came from streams, lakes and reservoirs and 29.8 million gallons from ground-water sources.

The second table showed that 89 per cent of the water used by industry in 1951 came from private sources and that of this, 3,297.2 million gallons came from the surface and 281.9 million gallons from ground-water sources.

The heaviest use of water by industry was in Allegheny County, where the total amount in 1951 was 1274.7 million gallons a day. Beaver County was second with 529.2 million gallons daily and Delaware County third with 309.2 million gallons a day. The industrial use of water in Philadelphia totaled 226.9 million gallons a day.

Only 42.1 million gallons of water used by industry in Allegheny County came from municipal supply and the remainder from private sources, while in Beaver, Delaware and Philadelphia Counties, the totals from municipal supply were 3.8 million gallons, 5.2 million gallons and 66.4 million gallons respectively.

Two Bequests for Church Are in Amount of $600

Mrs. Elizabeth Tyrol Remembers St. Mark's Here in Her Will

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 11—For the saying of masses for repose of the soul, Mrs. Elizabeth Tyrol, late of Bristol, bequeathed $100 to St. Mark's R. C. Church, Bristol, and $500 for care of burial plot. The will was probated in Register of Wills office here.

The testatrix, who died Nov. 9, and left a $4,600 personal estate and $12,500 real estate holdings, located at 234 Mulberry street, Bristol, added two codicils to her will, dated April 23, 1947.

In the first codicil, dated March 20, the testatrix wrote the bequests for the church. In the second codicil, dated April 28, 1947, she stipulated that all the household goods, furniture, jewelry and contents of her home at 234 Mulberry street, should be inherited by a daughter, Emily Stuart.

In her original will, the testatrix directed that Emily Stuart and William F. Tyrol, her children, should be the residuary heirs. Emily Stuart, Rosemont, was named executrix.

Norman Jesse Wilgus, Nockamixon twp., who left a $1,000 personal estate, named his widow, Irene I. Wilgus, Ottsville, the beneficiary. The will was dated April 7, 1951, and the testator died Sept. 18. Following the death of the widow, three children, Dorothy I. Jones, Norman J. Wilgus, Jr., and Ralph C. Wilgus, will be the heirs.

Mrs. Harriet A. Stine, Morrisville, was named the sole beneficiary of the $8,000 estate of George D. Stine, Morrisville. The testator, who died Nov. 1, made his will July 26, 1943, and the widow was named executrix.

A daughter, Lorraine E. Gould, Morrisville, will inherit the $100 personal and $5,000 real estate holdings of Anna C. Gould, Morrisville. The testatrix, who died Sept. 30, made her will Jan. 12.

Four children, George Raupp, Ocala, Fla.; Arthur Raupp, Bensalem twp.; Fred Raupp and Kathryn Henninger, both of Phila., will share the $4,000 personal estate of Frederick Raupp, Bensalem twp. The testator, who named Arthur Raupp, Crescent ave., Bristol, R. D. 3, the executor, made his will April 15. He died Oct. 5.

Home sewers will find it handy to have a small magnet around with which to pick up pins and needles that drop to the floor.

Programs and events have been arranged for young rural people that will call for greater participation than at any other Farm Show, the State Secretary of Agriculture declared.

The 1952 Pennsylvania Farm Show was dedicated most effectively to "Youth in Agriculture." The 1953 show is to emphasize "Efficiency in Production" and in such dedication Secretary Horst sees opportunity for rural youth to make an outstanding contribution for advancement of Pennsylvania agriculture through the many club and school activities that are designed for efficient operation of the farm and the farm home.

Coming to the 1953 Farm Show will be thousands of 4-H Club members and representatives of the Future Farmers of America and the Future Homemakers of America. Hundreds will take active parts in the show through providing livestock and other farm home exhibits. They will also enter various contests and demonstrations for which the Commission is providing thousands of dollars in premium awards.

Highlights of youth activities include a block-long display of special exhibits of their vocational school project work by 18 FFA and FHA chapters, a record number of vocational school demonstrations, also cattle, swine, and lamb competition, potato grading and tractor driving contests. Youth participation peaks on Thursday with selection of the 4-H Club Baby Beef and Lamb Champions and their sale at auction on Friday afternoon just before the close of the show.

Baby Sitter Held

ELLEN FERN, 15, a baby sitter, is being held by Seattle police in the death of a four-month-old child. Ellen told the authorities that she lost her temper when Gary Payne continued to cry after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Payne, went shopping. The girl, according to police, said she grabbed a piece of cloth and "to keep him quiet I pushed and moved the rag down his throat." (International)

HA Gets 4300 Applications n Loans in Levittown

500 Inspections Finished, 600 Houses Already OKd; Three Inspectors Here

LEVITTOWN, Dec. 11 — James Mulvehill, Frank Shilling and oward Jones have traveled many mile in Levittown since construcon began at this home developent, and they will probably have undreds of miles more to cover fore it is completed.

They examine houses whose mortges are insured by the Federal ousing Administration, to see at they meet F. H. A. building andards. So far, the Phila. Dis- t F. H. A. office has received 00 applications for its services om lending institutions, accordg to T. J. Gallagher, assistant rector. In addition, "a substantial umber" of purchasers' applicaons are in his office being reewed.

To date 2500 Levittown houses ve received final inspection, and e F. H. A. has endorsed mortgage nds for insurance in some 600 ses.

Mulvehill, a member of the Phila. H. A. staff, is resident inspector r Levittown. Shilling and Jones ssist him as construction examinrs.

Each F. H. A. house here undergoes three "compliance inspections." In the first test, made after the concrete foundation of a Levittowner is in place, the three inspectors examine the slab for proper and even thickness and at the same time check the radiant heat tubing that will be imbeded under the floor.

The second inspection is made when the frame of the house is in place and it is ready to receive the interior sheetrock walls. The F. H. A. officials examine the plumbing, heating and electric connections at this time, as well as the framing of the house. The third and final test is made when the house is completed, ready to be moved into.

The major operation of the F. H. A. office, Gallagher says, "is the receipt of applications from approved lending institutions and their subsequent processing to establish an estimate of value and determine that the purchaser or mortgager is not assuming an obligation beyond his ability to pay."

Checking the home buyer's ability to pay off the mortgage, Gallagher says, "involves calculation of the total monthly debt service represented by interest and amortization, real estates taxes, hazard insurance and the F. H. A. mortgage insurance premium. Such debt service is then related to the applicant's present and anticipated income to determine that the proposed transaction is economically sound and eligible for mortgage insurance."

By insuring repayment of the home buyer's loan, the F. H. A. brings him better terms. The interest charge is not over 4½ per cent.

LEVITTOWN, Dec. 11 — Tennessee is a fisherman's paradise, Roy L. Garlich, 47 Grove lane, has found out, and he dreams of starting an anglers' resort there. He and his wife, Juanita, and their 15-year-old son, John Paul, all enjoy fishing.

Mr. Garlich worked at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic energy plant, for the Carbon & Carbide Co. Since moving here Oct. 20, he was a tool engineer with Modern Engineering Co., assigned to Fort Worth, Texas, but recently resigned to be closer to his family.

At Oak Ridge, the Garlichs lived in an attractive concrete house leased from the government, Mrs. Garlich says. The house had radiant heat under the floor, as in Levittown.

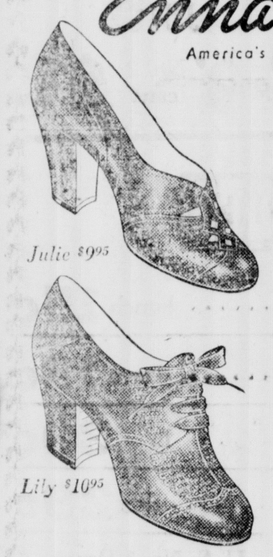

Mr. and Mrs. Garlich, born in Illinois, both formerly worked for the McDonnel Aircraft Co., St. Louis, Mo. John Paul now makes model aircraft, including gasoline-powered planes. He is in tenth grade in Delhaas high school.

Old bath towels can be easily made into mittens for cleaning woodwork and plumbing fixtures.

Two Bequests for Church Are in Amount of $600

Mrs. Elizabeth Tyrol Remembers St. Mark's Here in Her Will

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 11—For the saying of masses for repose of the soul, Mrs. Elizabeth Tyrol, late of Bristol, bequeathed $100 to St. Mark's R. C. Church, Bristol, and $500 for care of burial plot. The will was probated in Register of Wills office here.

The testatrix, who died Nov. 9, and left a $4,600 personal estate and $12,500 real estate holdings, located at 234 Mulberry street, Bristol, added two codicils to her will, dated April 23, 1947.

In the first codicil, dated March 20, the testatrix wrote the bequests for the church. In the second codicil, dated April 28, 1947, she stipulated that all the household goods, furniture, jewelry and contents of her home at 234 Mulberry street, should be inherited by a daughter, Emily Stuart.

In her original will, the testatrix directed that Emily Stuart and William F. Tyrol, her children, should be the residuary heirs. Emily Stuart, Rosemont, was named executrix.

Norman Jesse Wilgus, Nockamixon twp., who left a $1,000 personal estate, named his widow, Irene I. Wilgus, Ottsville, the beneficiary. The will was dated April 7, 1951, and the testator died Sept. 18. Following the death of the widow, three children, Dorothy I. Jones, Norman J. Wilgus, Jr., and Ralph C. Wilgus, will be the heirs.

Mrs. Harriet A. Stine, Morrisville, was named the sole beneficiary of the $8,000 estate of George D. Stine, Morrisville. The testator, who died Nov. 1, made his will July 26, 1943, and the widow was named executrix.

A daughter, Lorraine E. Gould, Morrisville, will inherit the $100 personal and $5,000 real estate holdings of Anna C. Gould, Morrisville. The testatrix, who died Sept. 30, made her will Jan. 12.

Four children, George Raupp, Ocala, Fla.; Arthur Raupp, Bensalem twp.; Fred Raupp and Kathryn Henninger, both of Phila., will share the $4,000 personal estate of Frederick Raupp, Bensalem twp. The testator, who named Arthur Raupp, Crescent ave., Bristol, R. D. 3, the executor, made his will April 15. He died Oct. 5.

Home sewers will find it handy to have a small magnet around with which to pick up pins and needles that drop to the floor.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.

On June 30, 1950, Senator Pat McCarran, Democrat of Nevada and chairman of the senate committee on the judiciary, submitted to the central intelligence agency a list of 100 names taken at random from the names of several thousand aliens in the U. S. on diplomatic status.

The chief of the CIA reported back to the Senator that:

1. "Thirty-two of the alien diplomats had been engaged in active work for the intelligence services of their countries," prior to their arrival in the U. S.

2. "Twenty-one were active in Communist organizational work of an underground or subversive nature, outside their homelands."

3. "Twenty-nine are ardent workers in subversive activities in the light of known Communist methods and must be considered to be against the interests of the United States."

Two and one-half years later not a single one of the 82 have been arrested or deported despite the fact that the Internal Security Act of 1950 provides for the deportation from the United States of any alien, irrespective of his status, if he engages in activities in the U. S. endangering the public safety.

Since the passage of the Internal Security Act, 3,616 aliens were issued diplomatic visas to enter the United States from Iron Curtain countries. No visa has been formally refused by the State Department in such a case since the enactment of the Internal Security Act.

The chief of the visa division of the Department of State Robert C. Alexander, testified that in every case in which the visa division has disapproved a visa application on security grounds involving officials of a foreign government or an affiliate of an international organization, the case has been approved by the higher echelon of the Department of State.

Alexander stated further that the visa section was overruled at the rate of 8 to 10 alien subversive cases per month.

The State Department simply ignores the law. It has good precedent, since Mr. Truman has refused to follow the dictates of Congress and the courts in numerous cases when it was mandatory to apply the Taft-Hartley Labor law to industrial disputes.

Congress has been timid in not demanding impeachment proceedings against responsible State Department aides. As always, the final decision to ignore the Internal Security Act comes from the office of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As always he has a pat answer when asked to explain:

"The admission into the United States would be highly desirable in the national interest from the standpoint of the conduct of our foreign relations."

There is a pertinent case involving Roman Kutylowski, President of the Gdynia-American shipping lines. The immigration service detained Kutylowski for exclusion from the U. S. when he arrived here for admission. He was detained as a subversive aljen. Acheson sprung him from Ellis Island, giving the standard reason, in an edict issued by the State Department to the Department of Justice.

A federal grand jury recently laid the entire sordid mess on the table in a presentment. It attempted to take up where the Senate Internal Security sub-committee left off. But the grand jury's work is not done. A new one should be convened by the new Attorney General, Herbert Brownell, as soon as he takes office. Its first witness should be Acheson and all other officials in the department who have ignored the Internal Security Act, or overruled the immigration service or the State Department visa section to admit Soviet agents. In each instance they should be called upon, under oath, to state exactly why the alien has been admitted, and how his presence was desirable in the conduct of our foreign policy. They should be answerable as well to the question of who interceded for the Alien initially, whether it was someone in the White House, or the State Department, or where.

It's time to put all the liars in the administration under oath, instead of just the underlings who are protected and promoted in their jobs.

The only people in the U. S. able to squeeze behind the Iron Curtain are Communists, and even then it's illegal, but the State Department consistently ignores the fact that our Kremlin travelers are violating the law.

Russia is always accusing us of a reign of terror against the Sovietized diplomats in the U. S. A. Let's get someone in the State Department with enough courage to institute a mild one and see if we can't clean out a few of the worst. After all, Russia can't get any more sore at us than she is, although the Kremlin is naturally disappointed that Truman lost the election and Acheson is going to get the bounce.

TV ENRICHED

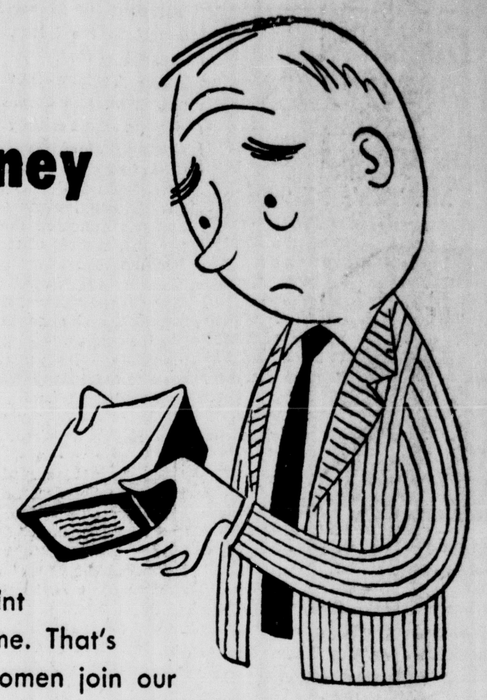

DENVER—(INS)—Six months of TV set sales in Denver have enriched the city treasury by more than $3,000. Dollar fees, for antenna permits, are pouring into the city chest at increasing rates. Denver has had local television broadcasting for only about four months. But the total value of TV antennas is about $150,000.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Taft's Mistake

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.

With the blast of Senator Taft against General Eisenhower because of his selection of Martin P. Durkin, of Chicago, as Secretary of Labor, there came from various quarters the somewhat joyous cry of "Oh, a rift, a rift." Clearly, these cries emanated from wishful thinkers who do not—and never did—wish Ike well.

—o—

There are several reasons for believing there will be no "rift" of importance on this issue. One is because the implication of Mr. Taft's denunciation of the appointment as "incredible" is that having been bitterly opposed by all the labor bosses General Ike has now "surrendered" to them and appointed a "Truman Democrat" who will use his influence to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act. Except the Truman-Stevenson notion after the pre-election New York conference between the General and Senator Taft that the former had "surrendered" to the latter, there is no parallel to that.

The Truman-Stevenson outfit played on this theme right up to election day but they haven't been singing it since. On the other hand, it seemed plain that the President-elect was not the "captive" of anyone. Though, obviously, Mr. Taft had not indicated the Cabinet selections, several of them, including Mr. Humphreys for Secretary of the Treasury and Mr. Benson for Secretary of Agriculture, had supported Mr. Taft and opposed Ike for the nomination and were avowed friends of the former. Mr. Taft seemed quite happy about the general setup. He would, he said, have no difficulty in working with the men Ike had named.

—o—

This was the situation up to last Tuesday when Mr. Taft let go with his description of the Durkin selection as "incredible." This seems to convey the idea that the General has "double-crossed" Mr. Taft and now supinely seeks to placate the arrogant labor bosses who fought him. Neither of these things is true and Mr. Taft ought to know they are not true. Also, he ought to know that the Secretary of Labor is the least important of all Cabinet posts; that the Secretary of Labor never has made labor policy for the President; that the Secretary of Labor designate already has made it plain that he does not want to repeal the Taft-Hartley law but intends to adapt himself to General Eisenhower's view on this issue, which is exactly Senator Taft's view — to wit, that the Taft-Hartley law should be amended but not repealed.

—o—

The truth seems to be that Mr. Taft, a quick-tempered, oversensitive man, despite his high character and great ability, in a moment of pique because his recommendation for this post was not accepted, flew off the handle when he heard about it and made an ill-considered attack. Close friends of General Eisenhower say that when Senator Taft knows all the facts and the background of the appointment he will realize he has made an unjustified attack and will make amends. He is that sort of man.

—o—

One thing is certain, Mr. Taft's opposition to Mr. Durkin has not started any revolt among Senate Republicans who do not believe his attitude is either important or justified. His friends regret to see him join Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Senator Wayne Morse, who, up to the time of his outburst, were the only vocally violent critics of the Eisenhower appointments. Mr. Morgenthau, genreally regarded as one of the least wise and worse equipped of all the men who have been Secretary of the Treasury, complained that the Eisenhower appointments were not representative of the "working people" of the country—a typically silly remark.

—o—

The garrulous Senator Morse, in a breast-beating speech, bolted the Republican party after the "Morning Heights Surrender," announced after the election, in which General Eisenhower carried his State of Oregon by a great majority, that he would not send any congratulatory message to the General. Courageously bearing up under this awful blow General Ike went ahead, picking his Cabinet in less than three weeks—a job which usually takes an incoming President that many months. As we expected, the personnel did not please Mr. Morse, who denounced it as "reactionary." But it certainly seemed to please the country as a whole.

—o—

It is too bad Senator Taft has seen fit to join the Messrs. Morgenthau and Morse for so inadequate a reason. The belief is that the even-tempered Eisenhower, who sincerely respects Senator Taft, wants to be friends and needs his support, will be able to explain to him that he is neither a "double-crosser" nor a "two-timer." Mr. Durkin, though he may have been, as Mr. Taft says, a "Truman Democrat," certainly compares favorably with the present incumbent, Mr. Maurice Tobin, of Boston, whose violent, demagogic speeches and complete servility to the CIO bosses could hardly be exceeded. Also, when Mr. Durkin is compared to other of his predecessors as Labor Secretary, there seems no reason to complain. They are not an impressive lot—and, perhaps the General knows what he is doing.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. On June 30, 1950, Senator Pat McCarran, Democrat of Nevada and chairman of the senate committee on the judiciary, submitted to the central intelligence agency a list of 100 names taken at random from the names of several thousand aliens in the U. S. on diplomatic status.

The chief of the CIA reported back to the Senator that:

1. "Thirty-two of the alien diplomats had been engaged in active work for the intelligence services of their countries," prior to their arrival in the U. S.

2. "Twenty-one were active in Communist organizational work of an underground or subversive nature, outside their homelands."

3. "Twenty-nine are ardent workers in subversive activities in the light of known Communist methods and must be considered to be against the interests of the United States."

Two and one-half years later not a single one of the 82 have been arrested or deported despite the fact that the Internal Security Act of 1950 provides for the deportation from the United States of any alien, irrespective of his status, if he engages in activities in the U. S. endangering the public safety.

Since the passage of the Internal Security Act, 3,616 aliens were issued diplomatic visas to enter the United States from Iron Curtain countries. No visa has been formally refused by the State Department in such a case since the enactment of the Internal Security Act.

The chief of the visa division of the Department of State Robert C. Alexander, testified that in every case in which the visa division has disapproved a visa application on security grounds involving officials of a foreign government or an affiliate of an international organization, the case has been approved by the higher echelon of the Department of State.

Alexander stated further that the visa section was overruled at the rate of 8 to 10 alien subversive cases per month.

The State Department simply ignores the law. It has good precedent, since Mr. Truman has refused to follow the dictates of Congress and the courts in numerous cases when it was mandatory to apply the Taft-Hartley Labor law to industrial disputes.

Congress has been timid in not demanding impeachment proceedings against responsible State Department aides. As always, the final decision to ignore the Internal Security Act comes from the office of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As always he has a pat answer when asked to explain:

"The admission into the United States would be highly desirable in the national interest from the standpoint of the conduct of our foreign relations."

There is a pertinent case involving Roman Kutylowski, President of the Gdynia-American shipping lines. The immigration service detained Kutylowski for exclusion from the U. S. when he arrived here for admission. He was detained as a subversive alien. Acheson sprung him from Ellis Island, giving the standard reason, in an edict issued by the State Department to the Department of Justice.

A federal grand jury recently laid the entire sordid mess on the table in a presentment. It attempted to take up where the Senate Internal Security sub-committee left off. But the grand jury's work is not done. A new one should be convened by the new Attorney General, Herbert Brownell, as soon as he takes office. Its first witness should be Acheson and all other officials in the department who have ignored the Internal Security Act, or overruled the immigration service or the State Department visa section to admit Soviet agents. In each instance they should be called upon, under oath, to state exactly why the alien has been admitted, and how his presence was desirable in the conduct of our foreign policy. They should be answerable as well to the question of who interceded for the Alien initially, whether it was someone in the White House, or the State Department, or where.

It's time to put all the liars in the administration under oath, instead of just the underlings who are protected and promoted in their jobs.

The only people in the U. S. able to squeeze behind the Iron Curtain are Communists, and even then it's illegal, but the State Department consistently ignores the fact that our Kremlin travelers are violating the law.

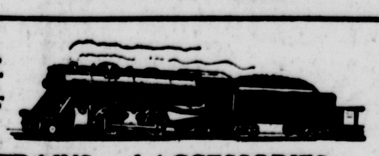

Russia is always accusing us of a reign of terror against the Sovietized diplomats in the U. S. A. Let's get someone in the State Department with enough courage to institute a mild one and see if we can't clean out a few of the worst. After all, Russia can't get any more sore at us than she is, although the Kremlin is naturally disappointed that Truman lost the election and Acheson is going to get the bounce.

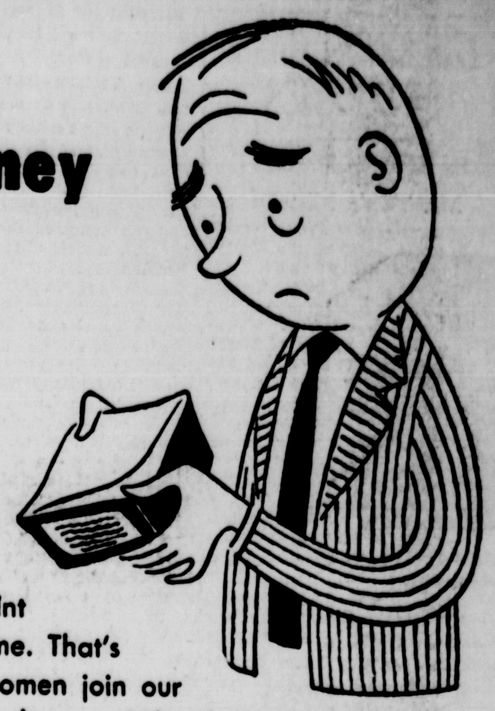

TV ENRICHED

DENVER—(INS)—Six months of TV set sales in Denver have enriched the city treasury by more than $3,000. Dollar fees, for antenna permits, are pouring into the city chest at increasing rates. Denver has had local television broadcasting for only about four months. But the total value of TV antennas is about $150,000.

KITCHEN CLUES

By Olga Curtis

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 — (INS) — Everytime the price of food goes down these days, you can call it good news.

And good news is the right name for an announcement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The department says the total supply of canned fruits this season is larger than average, with prices lower than they were last year.

As for canned vegetables, the total supply is plentiful, and while prices aren't exactly down, they're not up either. Canned vegetable prices will stay at last year's level.

It takes know-how to fry an egg so that it comes out firm and shiny, and without an unappetizing brown crust around the edge.

But the know-how consists of a simple secret—cook your eggs at a low temperature. High heat makes the egg white rubbery, and leads to scorching.

You can fry eggs perfectly if you use the fat-and-water method.

First, melt about two teaspoons of fat in a skillet that has a tight-fitting cover. Be careful not to scorch the fat.

Break the eggs one at a time into a saucer to make sure that they're good. When the fat is melted, let the eggs slide from the saucer into the pan. Cook them slowly until the whites are set.

Then add a teaspoon of water to the skillet, and cover it tightly. Turn off the heat, and let the steam from the water finish cooking the eggs. It will also produce a fine film over the yolks.

Don't forget to serve the fried eggs immediately, since nobody likes a cold egg, and season them at the table.

Housewives are often reminded that a big help in planning meals is figuring out a menu in advance.

The same is true of the lunchbox meals you give your children. Working out lunchbox menus for a week ahead insures variety for the smallfry at lunchtime.

Each well-balanced lunch should have at least one substantial sandwich. Meat, cheese, or peanut butter are good sandwich fillers, and you'll add variety by changing the types of bread—whole wheat, rye or raisin.

Include milk in some form, either plain milk, or custard, or cream soup. And there should be a vegetable like celery, carrots or raw tomato. Fresh fruit is another must.

Sweets in the form of cookies or cake or a jelly sandwich can be added. And try to tuck in a little surprise every day—like a miniature box of raisins, or a couple of marshmallows.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Taft's Mistake

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. With the blast of Senator Taft against General Eisenhower because of his selection of Martin P. Durkin, of Chicago, as Secretary of Labor, there came from various quarters the somewhat joyous cry of "Oh, a rift, a rift." Clearly, these cries emanated from wishful thinkers who do not—and never did—wish Ike well.

—o—

There are several reasons for believing there will be no "rift" of importance on this issue. One is because the implication of Mr. Taft's denunciation of the appointment as "incredible" is that having been bitterly opposed by all the labor bosses General Ike has now "surrendered" to them and appointed a "Truman Democrat" who will use his influence to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act. Except the Truman-Stevenson notion after the pre-election New York conference between the General and Senator Taft that the former had "surrendered" to the latter, there is no parallel to that.

The Truman-Stevenson outfit played on this theme right up to election day but they haven't been singing it since. On the other hand, it seemed plain that the President-elect was not the "captive" of anyone. Though, obviously, Mr. Taft had not indicated the Cabinet selections, several of them, including Mr. Humphreys for Secretary of the Treasury and Mr. Benson for Secretary of Agriculture, had supported Mr. Taft and opposed Ike for the nomination and were avowed friends of the former. Mr. Taft seemed quite happy about the general setup. He would, he said, have no difficulty in working with the men Ike had named.

—o—

This was the situation up to last Tuesday when Mr. Taft let go with his description of the Durkin selection as "incredible." This seems to convey the idea that the General has "double-crossed" Mr. Taft and now supinely seeks to placate the arrogant labor bosses who fought him. Neither of these things is true and Mr. Taft ought to know they are not true. Also, he ought to know that the Secretary of Labor is the least important of all Cabinet posts; that the Secretary of Labor never has made labor policy for the President; that the Secretary of Labor designate already has made it plain that he does not want to repeal the Taft-Hartley law but intends to adapt himself to General Eisenhower's view on this issue, which is exactly Senator Taft's view — to wit, that the Taft-Hartley law should be amended but not repealed.

—o—

The truth seems to be that Mr. Taft, a quick-tempered, oversensitive man, despite his high character and great ability, in a moment of pique because his recommendation for this post was not accepted, flew off the handle when he heard about it and made an ill-considered attack. Close friends of General Eisenhower say that when Senator Taft knows all the facts and the background of the appointment he will realize he has made an unjustified attack and will make amends. He is that sort of man.

—o—

One thing is certain, Mr. Taft's opposition to Mr. Durkin has not started any revolt among Senate Republicans who do not believe his attitude is either important or justified. His friends regret to see him join Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Senator Wayne Morse, who, up to the time of his outburst, were the only vocally violent critics of the Eisenhower appointments. Mr. Morgenthau, genreally regarded as one of the least wise and worse equipped of all the men who have been Secretary of the Treasury, complained that the Eisenhower appointments were not representative of the "working people" of the country—a typically silly remark.

—o—

The garrulous Senator Morse, in a breast-beating speech, bolted the Republican party after the "Morning Heights Surrender," announced after the election, in which General Eisenhower carried his State of Oregon by a great majority, that he would not send any congratulatory message to the General. Courageously bearing up under this awful blow General Ike went ahead, picking his Cabinet in less than three weeks—a job which usually takes an incoming President that many months. As we expected, the personnel did not please Mr. Morse, who denounced it as "reactionary." But it certainly seemed to please the country as a whole.

—o—

It is too bad Senator Taft has seen fit to join the Messrs. Morgenthau and Morse for so inadequate a reason. The belief is that the even-tempered Eisenhower, who sincerely respects Senator Taft, wants to be friends and needs his support, will be able to explain to him that he is neither a "double-crosser" nor a "two-timer." Mr. Durkin, though he may have been, as Mr. Taft says, a "Truman Democrat," certainly compares favorably with the present incumbent, Mr. Maurice Tobin, of Boston, whose violent, demagogic speeches and complete servility to the CIO bosses could hardly be exceeded. Also, when Mr. Durkin is compared to other of his predecessors as Labor Secretary, there seems no reason to complain. They are not an impressive lot—and, perhaps the General knows what he is doing.

KITCHEN CLUES

By Olga Curtis

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 — (INS) — Everytime the price of food goes down these days, you can call it good news.

And good news is the right name for an announcement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The department says the total supply of canned fruits this season is larger than average, with prices lower than they were last year.

As for canned vegetables, the total supply is plentiful, and while prices aren't exactly down, they're not up either. Canned vegetable prices will stay at last year's level.

It takes know-how to fry an egg so that it comes out firm and shiny, and without an unappetizing brown crust around the edge.

But the know-how consists of a simple secret—cook your eggs at a low temperature. High heat makes the egg white rubbery, and leads to scorching.

You can fry eggs perfectly if you use the fat-and-water method.

First, melt about two teaspoons of fat in a skillet that has a tight-fitting cover. Be careful not to scorch the fat.

Break the eggs one at a time into a saucer to make sure that they're good. When the fat is melted, let the eggs slide from the saucer into the pan. Cook them slowly until the whites are set.

Then add a teaspoon of water to the skillet, and cover it tightly. Turn off the heat, and let the steam from the water finish cooking the eggs. It will also produce a fine film over the yolks.

Don't forget to serve the fried eggs immediately, since nobody likes a cold egg, and season them at the table.

Housewives are often reminded that a big help in planning meals is figuring out a menu in advance.

The same is true of the lunchbox meals you give your children. Working out lunchbox menus for a week ahead insures variety for the smallfry at lunchtime.

Each well-balanced lunch should have at least one substantial sandwich. Meat, cheese, or peanut butter are good sandwich fillers, and you'll add variety by changing the types of bread—whole wheat, rye or raisin.

Include milk in some form, either plain milk, or custard, or cream soup. And there should be a vegetable like celery, carrots or raw tomato. Fresh fruit is another must.

Sweets in the form of cookies or cake or a jelly sandwich can be added. And try to tuck in a little surprise every day—like a miniature box of raisins, or a couple of marshmallows.

"Let's get E.J. in here right away"

As often happens, a businessman wants a quick word with an associate. Even though his office may be just down the hall, it's instinctive to reach for the telephone. Day in and day out, the telephone is there when you want it. You take it for granted as part of modern life.

That's the way we want it to be. And because it is that way, telephone people feel they're doing the job you expect them to do.
